~~The Student Nurse Guide believes in inspiring future nurses through a different approach in training. We believe doing a degree in nursing doesn't have to be unnecessarily hard/stressful/exhausting or financially ruin you! We believe anyone can be a nurse no matter what challenges you have to overcome. Reflective practice is one of the very first things you will learn about when you start uni & it is incredibly boring! At first it seems a very daunting & complex process with theories and models and something you have to get right if you want to qualify - no pressure! You also may have to write one of your first assignments about reflection and include something from practice to reflect on. Just deciding what to reflect on can seem to take forever, let alone writing the actual reflective account. Why writing reflective accounts are important:"It helps you to remember key learning experiences."You have recorded examples to draw on when writing assignments."It helps develop your self-awareness."Showcases your development journey & achievements."Builds your critical analysis & problem solving skills. "Helps you to develop your reflection in action vs reflection on action. "It's part of the NMC code to be a reflective practitioner through continuous reflection. If you haven't already started keeping a reflective journal you will need to soon. Most universities recommend students start one at the beginning of their degree, to help them develop their reflection skills, and as a way of keeping all their reflective accounts in one place. The Student Nurse Guide Reflective Journal was designed specifically for nursing students. It includes an example of a student nurses reflective account to draw from if you get stuck. Each page includes space to record the date, location, key learning point to help you quickly recall & find the subject, & read around to help develop your knowledge of key nursing skills as a result of your reflection. A reflective writing outline is also included on every reflective account page to help guide your writing and keep you on track. Featuring a modern contemporary design in A5 size, it is easy to keep at hand ready to record any learning opportunity as it happens, with approx 180 lined pages. The one thing to remember when reflecting is there is no right or wrong way of doing it. The aim is to not be perfect, but to just record an event or experience which you feel contributed to your learning in some way. Remember this can be both positive and negative; you don't have to be too critical of yourself. Once you have at least described what happened, you can always come back and reflect on it at a later time. Always be honest with yourself when reflecting even if it makes you feel uncomfortable at times. Writing reflective accounts is a skill you will develop the more you practice it. Once you have learnt about the different theories and modules on reflection, you will find a style you prefer and apply it to guide your own reflective account writing.~~

~~2007 AJN Book of the Year Award Winner Nursing Education in the Clinical Setting provides a practical approach to clinical nursing instruction. Although grounded in adult learning theory, this unique resource provides practical suggestions and addresses common questions and issues. The text incorporates illustrative scenarios, discussion questions, and reflection exercises designed to facilitate thoughtful application of the content. Addresses the role transition for a nurse with clinical expertise to that of clinical nursing instructor. Provides important tips for effectively appraising student performance such as student involvement in self-evaluation and goal setting, and suggestions for how evaluation and appraisal are shared with the student. Incorporates sample scenarios to illustrate concepts and allow the reader to apply them. Integrates discussion questions and exercises designed to facilitate thoughtful application and critical thinking skills. Addresses all aspects of learning, including "cognitive" (e.g., critical thinking), "affective" (e.g., caring), and "psychomotor" (e.g., technical skills). Provides actual examples of tools to be used for documenting student performance and approaches for stimulating student involvement and critical thinking. Includes a separate chapter on Clinical Faculty as Clinical Coach that discusses how learning is facilitated in the clinical setting with the guidance of an effective teacher. Features a Clinical Toolbox that contains a variety of supplemental resources, including sample approaches for teaching and evaluation, suggestions for preparing anecdotal notes, and relevant reference material. Incorporates issues related to computer access of patient data banks for students, and the federal regulations mandated by HIPAA and their clinical education implications.~~

~~ By the authors of the acclaimed Introduction to Rubrics  Major growth of interest in keeping journals or diaries for personal reflection and growth; and as a teaching tool  Will appeal to college faculty, administrators and teachers One of the most powerful ways to learn, reflect and make sense of our lives is through journal keeping. This book presents the potential uses and benefits of journals for personal and professional development—particularly for those in academic life; and demonstrates journals' potential to foster college students' learning, fluency and voice, and creative thinking. In professional life, a journal helps to organize, prioritize and address the many expectations of a faculty member's or administrator's roles. Journals are effective for developing time management skills, building problem-solving skills, fostering insight, and decreasing stress. Both writing and rereading journal entries allow the journal keeper to document thinking; to track changes and review observations; and to examine assumptions and so gain fresh perspectives and insights over past events. The authors present the background to help readers make an informed decision about the value of journals and to determine whether journals will fit appropriately with their teaching objectives or help manage their personal and professional lives. They offer insights and advice on selecting the format or formats and techniques most appropriate for the reader's purposes.~~

~~"This is an excellent resource, highly recommended for new and seasoned educators at every level." --Nursing Education Perspectives Health information technology is now the top priority for improving nursing and health care by informing clinical care, interconnecting clinicians, personalizing care, and improving population health at large. This book presents a broad range of cutting-edge teaching technologies and a detailed overview of teaching and learning pedagogical concepts that are relevant across a variety of teaching environments. Helpful to both new and seasoned educators, these "must-know" strategies allow faculty to keep pace with the rapidly changing digital world. The book helps to guide faculty in making thoughtful, informed decisions on how and where to integrate technology into learning environments. A major feature of this book is the Integrated Learning Triangle for Teaching with Technologies, a faculty tool to help determine if and how specific technologies can promote student learning. Other important chapter pedagogy includes best teaching practices, teaching and learning self-assessment tools, useful tips for faculty such as "making teaching easier," and reflective questions and activities for the reader. Key Topics: Using cutting-edge technologies as tools for "active learning," such as automated response systems, clickers, podcasts, blogs, wikis, web-based modules, and more Expanding faculty and student technology skills and information literacy-a critical competency in all nursing programs Using the Internet and digital videos to help bridge the classroom with the clinical setting Reflecting on how technology impacts current communication systems Incorporating simulation into students' clinical learning experiences Promoting self-directed, lifelong learning through health information technology~~

Using bite-sized theory combined with plentiful guidance and supporting activities, this book gives the reader a place to reflect on their learning and use writing as a tool for developing their thinking. Critical reflection is an essential skill for anyone undertaking qualifying professional programmes such as social work, nursing, health, teaching, childhood studies and youth and community work degrees. Whether being taught as a discrete module or as a major theme embedded in all teaching, this is essential reading for anyone wanting to improve their practice and deliver the best service possible. New to this Edition: - Revised throughout to ensure that the research and theory is up to date - Brand new features - Case Studies and Journal Extracts to prompt further reflection~~

~~'Christopher Johns is an internationally recognised pioneer of reflective practice in nursing and health care.' – Nursing Standard Becoming a Reflective Practitioner provides a unique insight into reflective practice, exploring the value of using models of reflection, with particular reference to Christopher Johns' own model for structured reflection. Now in its fifth edition, this book has been completely revised and updated to include up-to-date literature and reflective extracts. Contemporary in approach, this definitive text contains a variety of rich and insightful reflective extracts that support the main issues being raised in each chapter, and challenges practitioners and students to question their own practice. Now with further scenarios and case studies included throughout, these extracts provide the reader with access to the experience of reflective representation helping to explicate the way in which reflective practice can inform the wider notion of professional practice. With an increase in professional registration requiring reflective evidence, this new edition of Becoming a Reflective Practitioner is an essential guide to all those using reflection in everyday clinical practice.~~
