Sir Oswald Cheung's Chambers
When I compared verions of the Tchaikovsky for BBC Radio 3 ´s Building a Library, there was a marked contrast between chamber orchestras and large symphonic string sections. The best of each proved equally viable, but here we had the virtues combined; Southwark Cathedral acoustics, far from muddying the sound, gave it extra depth and body. The joy and tenderness of this great masterpiece ...

998 quotes from Oswald Chambers: ‘We tend to use prayer as a last resort, but God wants it to be our first line of defense. We pray when there’s nothing else we can do, but God wants us to pray before we do anything at all. Most of us would prefer, however, to spend our time doing something that will get immediate results. We don’t want to wait for God to resolve matters in His good time ...

Civil war, famine, genocide, AIDS--the peoples of Africa have endured horrific human tragedies. Those crises plus widespread economic, political, and social instability have combined to produce what some consider a dire and nearly hopeless situation. Even as this book was going to press, the leaders of the G-8 nations were meeting to talk about what could be done to "aid Africa" in these critical times. A careful look at history would indicate that the answer must come from within Africa and from the African people themselves, not from other nations or the economic programs and solutions.

Older readers and the visually-challenged will appreciate this large print edition of Oswald Chambers's classic work. Contains the complete, original text in an easy-to-read typeface.
