You meant to say something or agree to something, but the "other side" didn't hear it that way. That's enough for a customer to walk away forever. That's enough for a lawsuit. Because denying the experience of the other person doesn't open the door for re-connection. Forward motion is possible if we can extend the sentence to, "That's not what I meant, but that must be what you heard, how do we fix this?"

"I didn't mean it like that. That's not how I meant to come across ..." Clear communication and apologizing to others when appropriate is good, but there's something else that is even more important. In 1 John 1:5-7, it says, "God is light and in Him is no darkness at all ... But if we walk in the light as He is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus Christ His Son cleanses us from all sin.
